

Which language* of Micronesia / Fiji / Polynesia am I reading?

* written version of larger indigenous spoken language

There are many more languages spoken in the region; languages included here are primarily languages with ample government-published material available on-line.

Take care that there can be many loanwords in texts that do not follow these rules.

Diacritics are sometimes ignored in texts; non-official / alternative diacritics and letters can sometimes be used.

Non-standard dialects of these languages, and closely related languages, do not necessarily follow these rules. The rules stated in this flowchart are based on the modern standard spelling of these languages. (Some languages have competing standards, and some languages have no standardised spelling. In these cases, the most-general rules are stated.) Older texts can use spelling that do not conform to these rules.
